ALPS OutdoorZ Partners with Name the Game TV as Official Pack Sponsor

New Haven, MO - ALPS OutdoorZ is excited to announce that they have partnered with Name the Game TV as the official pack sponsor of Levi & Samantha Morgan for the 2016 season. As part of the new partnership, Levi and Samantha will be exclusively wearing ALPS OutdoorZ Extreme packs on the program, set to begin airing new episodes in late June.

"We hunt from the Arctic circle, to the desert of Mexico, to the tree stand in the Midwest and we have to have a pack that is durable and designed with purpose," said Levi Morgan of Name the Game TV. "ALPS OutdoorZ packs have been that pack for us! There's enough to worry about when we're out there on these hunts, and ALPS has taken one of those worries off the list by making some incredible products! We are proud to wear them on our backs!"

"Levi and Samantha are both great stewards for archery, ethical hunting, and the outdoor lifestyle in general," said Frank Hemmer, ALPS OutdoorZ marketing manager. "We're excited to have our Extreme packs featured on the program this year, as they were designed specifically for the adventure style hunting that Levi and Samantha are known for."

The Extreme line of hunting packs by ALPS OutdoorZ was released in early fall 2015, and received tremendous feedback from the hunting community. Constructed using only the highest quality fabrics and components, including Lycra shoulder straps, 1680D ballistic nylon fabric, Hypalon reinforced stress points, and a molded foam suspension system, Extreme packs were built to exceed in even the toughest hunting conditions.
