Browning Camping Introduces New Tent for High Country Hunt Camp: Boulder

NEW HAVEN, Mo. – Browning Camping is proud to announce the release of the Boulder, a two person tent perfect for withstanding the inclement weather found in high country hunt camps. The Boulder equips hunters with the perfect spike camp shelter as they stalk their next trophy through some of the toughest terrain and harshest conditions.

Ready for extreme conditions, the Boulder features vertical side walls which allow more room for hunters to sit up inside the tent and take shelter from the elements. The front awning offers a protected viewing area in poor weather or additional space for gear storage. The extra guy-outs on the fly stabilize the tent in harsh weather. The floor features 75D 185T polyester taffeta with 5000 mm PU coating and the fly features 75D 185T polyester taffeta with 1500 mm coating to resist UV damage and keep your tent taut. The factory-sealed fly and floor seams provide additional weather protection. An optional polyester taffeta floor saver with webbing, grommets, and buckles on the corners can offer even more protection for the tent floor. The Boulder is quick and easy to assemble with its freestanding design with pole clips that quickly snap over the aluminum poles. Mesh roof vents and dual doors with zippered mesh windows provide ample ventilation to keep you comfortable.

The Browning Boulder is designed and built to last – equipping you for the hunt of a lifetime.
