Gear Up for Spike Camp with the Granite Creek Tent Series from Browning Camping

NEW HAVEN, Mo. – Browning Camping is proud to release the Granite Creek tent series to its 2018 lineup. Offered in a one-person and two-person model, the Granite Creek tent is a light-weight back-packing tent designed specifically with spike camp in mind.

The Granite Creek is a low-profile design for active hunters -- loaded with features and ready for any backcountry adventure. With the freestanding design and pole clips that quickly attach to the aluminum poles, setup is a breeze. Vertical walls provide increased interior space and large vestibules allow for gear storage and extra weather protection. The floor features 75D 185T polyester taffeta with 3000 mm PU coating and the fly features 75D 185T polyester with 1500 mm coating to resist UV damage and keep your tent taut. The factory-sealed fly and floor seams provide additional weather protection. Half-mesh walls provide increased ventilation keeping the tent comfortable in all weather conditions, while continuing to provide protection from the elements. The Granite Creek includes mesh storage pockets, a gear loft, stakes, and guy ropes. Optional Granite Creek Floor Savers constructed of polyester taffeta with webbing, grommets, and buckles on the corners offer even more protection for the tent floor.

Whether it's enjoying the scenery on a backpacking excursion or patiently stalking your next trophy through the high-country, the Granite Creek will equip you for your next back country adventure.
